

Please deny the petition of the Consumer Bankers Association to contact previous customers who are registered on Indiana's no-call list. Granting the petition is unnecessary because banks can contact former customers by other means, such as mail. Granting the petition would undermine the no-call list's effectiveness because other businesses would ask for similar exceptions until the list's registrants would again suffer the high volume of nuisance calls experienced before the no-call list existed.